The Historical Diving Society - Canada (HDS-Canada) enables individuals, organizations and corporations with an interest in diving history to make academic, social and practical contacts on both national and international levels.

One of the most significant benefits of Society subscription is the quarterly magazine Historical Diver, where you'll find articles covering the history of diving from ancient times to the modern surge in recreational diving. The magazine features profiles on such personalities as Jacques Yves Cousteau, Bob Kirby, Joe Savoie and Hans and Lotte Hass, as well as in-depth articles on Mark V diving helmets, scuba regulators and more.
